Heavy Snow Due In Northern Ohio

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Heavy snow warnings were issued for the northwestern part of the state Saturday, an area already hit with relatively minor flooding that threatened to send the Maumee River surging even higher.

By Friday night there already had been minor crises caused by high water in the water swollen Maumee River Basin. And up to four inches of snow was predicted for Saturday, following earlier rains in the extreme northwestern sector.

The river was four feet over flood stage at Defiance Friday night and was expected to crest at 14.5 feet Saturday afternoon. Flood stage is 14 feet.

The Red Cross stood by, ready to evacuate people from the area if the river went above 15 feet. As the water continued to rise, however, only three families had been evacuated in Defiance.

The flooding was caused by hardened ground, unable to soak up Thursday's rains. The snow Saturday was expected to taper off by Sunday, the U.S. Weather Bureau said.

According to weather bureau records, Chillicothe measured greatest rainfall in the past 24 hours — 1.40 inches. Cincinnati had 1.25 inches, Circleville 1.29 and Columbus 1.34. Other points which measured from a half to near an inch included Cleveland, Dayton, Delaware and Findlay, where some snow was recorded. Mansfield, and Toledo, also where some snow was recorded.

Parts of the East experienced unseasonably warm weather. In New York City, the temperature hit a record high Friday of 65 for the date. The old mark for a Dec. 9 was 61, set in 1953.

Snow or cold rain fell over the Midwest and Ohio Valley. An inch of snow fell at Peru, in northern Indiana, and more than four inches was expected to accumulate today in parts of the state.

Heavy rain extended southward to the Gulf Coast, with one-inch rainfalls common in Tennessee, Alabama and northwestern Florida.

Johnson Faces Defeat 'Unless', ADA Chief Says

WASHINGTON AP — President Johnson "can look forward to defeat in 1968" unless he changes his domestic and foreign policies, the national director of Americans for Democratic Action said today.

Leon Shull, in a speech prepared for a meeting of the liberal organization's national board, also cited Johnson's unpopularity as one reason for Republican gains in last month's elections.

"The administration should recognize that the 1966 election was a defeat and that if the President had been running he might well have lost," Shull said.

He said if Johnson proceeds with plans "for major substantial cuts or lack of forward motion in the Great Society programs, if he is going to develop his future programs in cooperation with and in consensus with Senator Dirksen and Congressman Ford, he can look forward to defeat in 1968."

Pontiff Will Share Sorrow of Florence

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI will visit flood-stricken Florence the day before Christmas and will celebrate Christmas midnight Mass in the city's damaged cathedral, the Vatican announced today.

The announcement said the Pope was departing from the tradition of celebrating the midnight Mass in the Vatican's Sistine Chapel as the means of sharing the sorrow of the stricken Florentine people and bringing them the comfort of his presence.

Full Programs Essential

(An Editorial)

Continuation of an adequate educational program is the objective of two tax levies that will be decided Tuesday by voters in the Teays Valley School District. One is a six-mill renewal of a current levy due to expire Dec. 31. The other seeks an additional three mills to help offset rising costs and increased enrollments.

We feel passage of both is of prime importance if the Teays Valley District is to continue its high-level educational standards. Teays Valley certainly can be considered one of the finest school districts in the state. The excellent program offered there is proof enough.

Like so many other school districts in Ohio, Teays Valley is confronted with an ever-increasing financial burden along a difficult road of providing the best possible education for its students.

Approval of the six-mill renewal is essential to present operations. The additional levy would guarantee continuation of programs and services already established.

Failure of one or both issues could mean serious cutbacks in the school's educational structure. Young students in the district would be the ones most affected by this move. We hope Teays Valley voters will not let it happen.

Romney's Road Will Be Rugged

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — Michigan Gov. George Romney is making his move for the 1968 Republican presidential nomination — but there is a job of salesmanship ahead among his moderate colleagues as well as GOP conservatives.

There is Californian Ronald Reagan, who said in an interview he is ruling out no potential candidate, is committed to none, and wants to see Romney in national action before he makes any decisions.

Reagan has had harsh words about Romney's refusal to endorse the 1964 GOP ticket headed by Barry Goldwater. The Michigan governor is known to have talked with Reagan in an effort to smooth out their differences.

Reagan is likely to command California's 86 convention votes when Republicans gather to choose their next presidential nominee.

Some liberal to moderate GOP governors indicated that they, too, remain to be convinced about Romney.

Romney insists it will be six months before he decides whether to seek the White House. But there was little doubt about his candidacy today among other Republican governors convened in this mountain resort.

Colorado's Gov. John A. Love was elected chairman of the Republican Governors Association. Gov. John H. Chafee of Rhode Island was chosen vice chairman, to succeed to the top spot next year.

In his farewell address as chairman, outgoing Idaho Gov. Robert E. Smylie said the next GOP nominee may well win the White House.

Romney said he is not asking other governors to commit themselves to support him for the nomination.

But with these moves, he stepped into an active unannounced candidacy.

He said he is not discouraging the formation of volunteer organizations to promote his cause. Even as he talked, a band of three dozen youthful supporters chanted, "We want Romney" and waved presidential placards.

He said he is not ruling out entry in 1968 presidential primaries.

The Michigan governor said he may find it necessary to go to Viet Nam, to gain information and shape his stand on steps to settle the war.

"It remains to be seen whether Johnson can get us out of Viet Nam or whether it will take a Republican president to do it," he said.

Talking like a candidate he added: "I think the people should have the information on how I feel about Viet Nam before they make up their minds."

"One needs to know how the people feel about you — whether they want you or don't want you."

NEW YORK (AP) — Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., says he will not contest the decision if the House of Representatives refuses to seat him in the January session of the 90th Congress.

"I am not going to fight," Powell said Friday night in an interview on the CBS television program "Special Report."

He was interviewed in the Bahamas Islands where he is vacationing.

"If they don't want me, I'm not going to fight them," he added.

Rep. Lionel Van Deerlin, D-Calif., has said he will seek to bar Powell from taking his seat in Congress unless the Harlem Democrat "can return to his home state of New York without going to jail" on a criminal contempt conviction and three other civil contempt convictions in connection with a $164,000 libel judgment he owes a Harlem widow.

Powell failed to show up Friday for a court-ordered financial examination which would have purged him of a 30-day civil contempt sentence.

His failure to appear meant that the 30-day sentence stood as well as an additional 30-day sentence for what the courts hold to be Powell's repeated defiance of legal mandates.

He now faces jail terms of one year and 90 days.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A wide-ranging set of new challenges was before most major Protestant and Orthodox churches today after their representatives concluded a week's work of mapping joint strategy.

Mentioned throughout the meeting was the growing cooperation between Protestant, Eastern Orthodox and Roman Catholic Christians.

Dr. Arthur S. Flemming, newly elected Council president, said the Council's main task will be "proclaiming the gospel of Jesus Christ."

But that, he added, is a double task. It means both preaching and action, he said, allied with Christ in "His ministry of compassion" among men.

In a two-day visit to the assembly, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey summed up the task as "pragmatic evangelism — faith and deed," and he urged churches to push ahead with social reform.

Guidelines for action drawn by the assembly put priority on working for world peace, equality of opportunity and overcoming of poverty.

The Assembly, held each three years, is the top policy-making body of the Council, which includes 34 Protestant and Orthodox denominations and has 42 million members in this country.

Four denominations were admitted at the current meeting. Action on Friday's final day included:

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The sixth strangling in Cincinnati turned the spotlight today on the unsolved Aug. 14 slaying of a 31-year-old woman who was stabbed in the throat after an attempt was made to strangle her.

Police continued to question a 29-year-old man in connection with both cases, and also the five previous stranglings.

A shy, religious spinster, Lulu Kerrick, 81, became the sixth victim of a killer who has terrorized Cincinnati since Dec. 2, 1965. Her body was found Friday in an elevator of her apartment building.

"There's a definite tie-in of the Kerrick slaying with the other stranglings in the city," said Jacob Schott, chief of detectives.

The stranglings have resulted in increased sales of guns and other weapons, such as tear gas guns, in the Cincinnati area.

Police arrested a laborer and former part time taxi driver, shortly after Miss Kerrick's body was found. They said he had been seen following another woman into Miss Kerrick's apartment building early Friday. That woman filed an assault charge against him.

Late Friday night, Schott said six persons picked the man out of a lineup in connection with the slaying of Barbara Bowman, 31, last Aug. 14. But the five men and a woman said they were not sure enough of the identification to testify in court.

Miss Kerrick, who lived alone a few blocks from police headquarters, was attacked after returning home from 7 a.m. Mass at St. Peter-in-Chains Cathedral near her home.

She had not been raped as were the other five strangling victims, all more than 50 years old. She was strangled with a stocking yanked from her leg.

The last previous killing was Oct. 20 when the body of Rose Winstel, 81, a spinster, was found in her apartment. She lived alone and strangled with an electric cord.

Cincinnati Faces School Problems

CINCINNATI (AP) — The overwhelming defeat of a 4.8 mill levy in a special election Friday will result in a drastic curtailment of various programs by the Cincinnati public schools.

Board of Education spokesmen say these will include the elimination of all federal programs — such as Project Head Start — which require local funds — the end of construction of temporary buildings to relieve overcrowding and a shortening of the school year by eight days next fall.

Unofficial totals from the city's 772 precincts whose 63,011 votes cast against the levy while 11,251 persons cast favorable votes. The levy was one of five school levies in Hamilton County that were defeated in the Nov. 8 general election.

Rain Still Falling

Scioto Is Close To Flood Stage

Circleville area received another .29 inches of rainfall during the past 24-hour period ending 8 a. m. today.

Predictions call for rainfall to continue throughout Saturday then change to snow tonight. Snow flurries are expected again on Sunday with a daytime high of only 30 degrees.

The near constant light rain fall, which began last Sunday, has forced many streams out of their banks. The Scioto River here is expected to reach a near flood level reading before cresting on Sunday.

Flood stage at Circleville is 14 feet. Official reading of the river's level at 8 a. m. today was 2.70 feet. At 8 a. m. on Friday the reading was 11.05 feet.

HEAVY rains north of here are to be a contributing factor in the high water in this area and on south to the Ohio River. However, the weatherman has indicated no threat of damaging floods is expected unless the rains continue.

Jack Ruby Felled by Pneumonia

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Jack Ruby, slayer of Lee Harvey Oswald, but a month or so away from a new trial, was taken from the Dallas County jail to Parkland Hospital Friday with what the hospital called a serious case of pneumonia.

Phil Burleson, one of Ruby's lawyers, said it was "too early to tell" how the illness might affect a new trial for his client.

Ruby, 35, was convicted and sentenced to death for Oswald's slaying, but the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals recently reversed the 1964 conviction and ordered a new trial outside of Dallas.

Dist. Judge Louis Holland, who has presided over the case since trial judge Joe B. Brown bowed out, transferred the trial to Wichita Falls but set no date. He indicated it possibly would be in February.

Rhodes Won't Make Choice

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — "This meeting is not a convention," Gov. James A. Rhodes told an interviewer Friday as he brushed aside political aspects, swirling all around him, of the Republican Governors Conference.

"There will be plenty of time for everyone to make up his mind before the convention is held," Rhodes said when asked about his own aspirations or preferences for the 1968 GOP national ticket.

Are you for Gov. George Romney of Michigan? Rhodes was asked.

"I'm not for anyone now," replied the Ohio governor whose 700,000-vote plurality for re-election last month has impressed many Republicans.

As for himself, Rhodes maintained as he has steadfastly that he is not a candidate for anything and doesn't expect to become one.

Rhodes has not been regarded as any sort of staunch conservative in his home state and is seen frequently at national governors' meetings with liberals like Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York, yet conservatives reportedly are casting comelighter looks in his direction.

Associated Press Political Writer Jack Bell reported as the conference got going Friday that conservatives had an underground campaign on here to whip up support for Rhodes at the top of the national ticket.

This would be in the nature of a holding action, Bell said, an effort to block off Midwest support for any early commitment to Romney, a front-runner in speculation over who might be the GOP presidential candidate in '68.

The conservatives, the AP observer continued, want time to examine Romney's position on issues as they develop.

Rhodes maintained that his prime purpose here was to bring the Republican governors to Cincinnati for their 1968 conference.

Battalion Hit As Air Cover Falls Short

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Two 250-pound bombs dropped from a U.S. Marine Corps plane exploded in the midst of a Marine company today, killing 16 Leathernecks and wounding 11, a Marine spokesman said.

The bombs were among six dropped to support a Marine battalion advancing along a narrow ridge, known as the Rockpile, about five miles south of the demilitarized zone, he said. The other four fell on their intended targets ahead of the advancing marines.

The spokesman said the two errant bombs may have ricocheted after striking the rocky terrain or there may have been a malfunction in the bombing mechanism.

The bombing strike was aimed at a suspected concentration of North Vietnamese troops on the ridge.

Marines won the Rockpile in campaigning through the early all against infiltrated North Vietnamese battalions. Curtains of explosives laid down by planes and artillery helped there, as elsewhere, to hold down the losses of American ground forces. But there was a costly accidental attack in that drive too.

A 500-pound bomb fell short in a strike by four Phantom jets in a raid on enemy entrenchments across a strategic hill near the rockpile Sept. 18. The stray bomb exploded on a group of odug — in Marines, killing three and wounding four.

In other war action, the Viet Cong mounted a series of attacks, and ambushes within a 25-mile radius of Saigon Friday night and today and in one assault inflicted heavy casualties on Vietnamese troops.

Rhodes Won't Make Choice

Meeting Is Titled No Convention

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — "This meeting is not a convention," Gov. James A. Rhodes told an interviewer Friday as he brushed aside political aspects, swirling all around him, of the Republican Governors Conference.

"There will be plenty of time for everyone to make up his mind before the convention is held," Rhodes said when asked about his own aspirations or preferences for the 1968 GOP national ticket.

Are you for Gov. George Romney of Michigan? Rhodes was asked.

"I'm not for anyone now," replied the Ohio governor whose 700,000-vote plurality for re-election last month has impressed many Republicans.

As for himself, Rhodes maintained as he has steadfastly that he is not a candidate for anything and doesn't expect to become one.

Rhodes has not been regarded as any sort of staunch conservative in his home state and is seen frequently at national governors' meetings with liberals like Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York, yet conservatives reportedly are casting come-hither looks in his direction.

Associated Press Political Writer Jack Bell reported as the conference got going Friday that conservatives had an underground campaign on here to whip up support for Rhodes at the top of the national ticket.

This would be in the nature of a holding action, Bell said, an effort to block off Midwest support for any early commitment to Romney, a front-runner in speculation over who might be the GOP presidential candidate in '68.

The conservatives, the AP observer continued, want time to examine Romney's position on issues as they develop.

Rhodes maintained that his prime purpose here was to bring the Republican governors to Cincinnati for their 1968 conference.

Battalion Hit As Air Cover Falls Short

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Two 250-pound bombs dropped from a U.S. Marine Corps plane exploded in the midst of a Marine company today, killing 16 Leathernecks and wounding 11, a Marine spokesman said.

The bombs were among six dropped to support a Marine battalion advancing along a narrow ridge, known as the Rockpile, about five miles south of the demilitarized zone, he said. The other four fell on their intended targets ahead of the advancing marines.

The spokesman said the two errant bombs may have ricocheted after striking the rocky terrain or there may have been a malfunction in the bombing mechanism.

The bombing strike was aimed at a suspected concentration of North Vietnamese troops on the ridge.

Marines won the Rockpile in campaigning through the early all against infiltrated North Vietnamese battalions. Curtains of explosives laid down by planes and artillery helped there, as elsewhere, to hold down the losses of American ground forces. But there was a costly accidental attack in that drive too.

A 500-pound bomb fell short in a strike by four Phantom jets in a raid on enemy entrenchments across a strategic hill near the rockpile Sept. 18. The stray bomb exploded on a group of dug-in Marines, killing three and wounding four.

In other war action, the Viet Cong mounted a series of attacks, and ambushes within a 25-mile radius of Saigon Friday night and today and in one assault inflicted heavy casualties on Vietnamese troops.

CONCRETE street dividers placed on Main St. Thursday to prevent motorists from turning left into the First National Bank Drive - in facilities were removed Friday.

City Safety Director Miller Fissell said the dividers created a hazard that had not been anticipated. Tractor - trailer type vehicles could not make the turn without hitting the obstructions.

The dividers were placed because motorists waiting to make a left turn created an obstruction to the even flow of traffic on Main St.

"It will be up to the banks to educate their customers to approach the lots in such a manner that they will turn right into the drive - in facilities," Fissell said.

Original plans had called for the obstructions to be placed at all banks. City Council's Safety Committee is now studying other means of preventing motorists from making left turns.

Terry towels make a pretty, practical gift for almost anyone on the Christmas list, says Doris Snook, Extension furnishings specialist at Ohio State University.

Gifts will be appreciated more if you select towels that are not only pretty but also durable, absorbent and practical, Miss Snook says.

Durability is determined by closeness of the weave. Check near the border and hold the towel up to the light. A good quality towel will show even pin points of light through the weave.

Check the selvage, too. A flat woven selvage should be tightly woven and uniform. The label will indicate if the selvage and border will stay pucker-free through many launderings.

If the selvage is hemmed, small even stitching, tightly fastened at the ends, should be used. The edges on wash cloths and small towels are often over stitched. This stitching should be even and tight.

Hemmed towels should be sewn with small close stitches, tightly fastened at the ends. Fringed ones should have a dense, uniform fringe with a tightly woven plain area above the fringe.

The weight, softness and length of pile determine how absorbent a terry towel will be. Long, thick loops mean quick drying. A lightweight towel with thin, short loops will become soggy fast.

Towels are listed soft, medium soft, rough or hard, depending on the fineness of the yarn used.

To be practical, a towel should be the proper size. There is great variation of size within styles. Bath towels, for example, range from 20 to 27 inches in length to 40 or 52. If buying them for gifts, do some detective work to find out what size is preferred.

Consider ease and cost of laundering, too. A heavy, large towel may be too heavy to handle when wet and may take extra drying time.

You can find a pretty gift among today's decorative and colorful terry towels. Select colors carefully and choose ones that will harmonize or contrast pleasantly with room colors.

Remember that some very dark dyes tend to reduce absorbency. Dark towels need to be washed alone because they pick up lint. Jacquard weave designs, where the pattern is woven into the fabric, last longer than printed designs.

Make room in your sewing box for a new addition—"Dual Duty" thread that sews and irons like cotton, but gives the stronger, more durable seams of a synthetic type.

Designed particularly for sewing durable - press, knits and stretch fabrics, the thread has a core of "dactron" polyester sheathed with cotton and a special silicone finish for smoother stitching. An important feature is the "give" so necessary in sewing modern fabrics.

The manufacturer, Coats and Clark, makes the following recommendations for sewing modern fabrics with "Dual Duty" thread:

1. Never break thread; cut on a slant for easy threading;
2. Use a light touch when hand sewing and a loose tension for machine stitching;
3. Anchor thread well when finished. For hand sewing use a short length of thread (about 18 inches) and an embroidery needle;
4. Test until a smooth seam is achieved. A ripple at the end of a seam is caused by too much pressure on the pressure foot. To correct, loosen the pressure bar screw.

The thread, size 60, comes in a range of 30 colors, including black and white.

Harvest Loss Is Costly to Corn Farmers

Corn growers in this country are leaving in the field after harvest nearly $190 million worth of corn that could be saved with improved operation, adjustment, and design of harvesting machines, an Ohio State University Extension agricultural engineer says.

D. M. Byg called these losses to the attention of persons attending the 1966 winter meeting of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers. He cited field checks conducted on farmer-operated machines during the past three seasons in Ohio to back his claims.

Byg said the Ohio studies showed harvesting losses ranging from less than one bushel per acre to 30 bushels. Field shellers he said, were losing slightly more than corn pickers, averaging 6.5 bushels per acre, compared to 4.5 bushels for the pickers.

Snapping roll loss was the greatest single loss for pickers and ear loss the greatest for shellers according to the study.

THE ENGINEER said he believed farmers could keep corn harvest losses to 3 per cent or less, providing they know how to measure machine component losses and then make machine adjustments to reduce these losses. He advocated an automatic stone sensing and ejecting device for corn combines.

Such a device, he said, would permit farmers to operate the machine's gathering units close to the ground without danger of costly damage due to stones. He also noted that as the machine swath increases, so does the need for either automatically controlled or free floating gathering units for each row or pair of rows.

Farm Tax Guide Is Available Here

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent, Agriculture

The 967 edition of the Farmer's Tax Guide has arrived at the Pickaway County Extension office. Copies are available by calling 474-7534, stopping by or writing the office at 137 W. Franklin St., in Circleville.

The Internal Revenue Service has prepared this guide to assist farmers in filing their 1966 income tax returns. Explanations and examples of tax rules of importance are presented in everyday language to illustrate how they apply.

A sample illustrated federal income tax return, including schedules used by farmers, is a regular feature of this guide.

The guide again stresses the importance of good record keeping. Good records will not only insure the accuracy of a farmer's return but will prevent overpayment or underpayment of tax, and will make preparing the return much easier.

HAVING adequate records available will save valuable time if your return should be selected for an audit.

There are many very desirable record systems that farmers may adopt and use that will satisfactorily meet their need. Ohio State University in recent years has developed a new commercial farm account book. Many Pickaway County farmers are presently using this publication.

There are many farmers interested in a better record system. To help with this problem, there will be a meeting open to everyone to discuss this particular record system, along with others.

This meeting will be held Dec. 29 starting 1:30 p. m. at the Fairgrounds 4-H and Grange Building.

The Ohio farm and home filing system will also be discussed at this meeting. This filing system is based upon the thought of "file it easy — find it easy." Reservations will not be needed.

Wheat Curl Mite Identified As Cause of Corn Disease

A new disease of corn, known as "kernel red streak," is caused by the feeding of mites on the ripening corn kernels, an Ohio scientist has reported.

Dr. Lowell R. Nault, research entomologist at the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center, said that minute plant-feeding mites secrete a phytotoxin which probably is responsible for the disease. He reported the findings to scientists attending the national meeting of the Entomological Society of America in Portland, Oregon.

Kernel red streak, first observed in northwestern Ohio in 1963, has been found in all of Ohio's 88 counties, northeastern Indiana, southern Michigan several other states and Ontario, Canada. The disease occurs in dent, flint, sweet and pop corns but most commonly in yellow dent corn.

The wheat curl mite was identified by Dr. Nault as cause of the kernel red streak disease. The mite is so microscopic in size he said that 600 can fit on the head of an ordinary pin.

THE MITE escaped detection of scientists until it was discovered feeding on corn kernels by Mrs. Magdalena Briones technical assistant to Dr. Nault. Miss Briones is an expert in eriophyid mites.

Dr. Nault and Miss Briones found the mites feeding on corn stalks, husks, and silks, as well as kernels. Severity of kernel red streak depends on the number of mites feeding on the kernels.

In addition to kernel red streak the wheat curl mite also transmits a virus disease to corn, the Ohio entomologist reported.

Dr. Nault said the virus, known as wheat streak mosaic, weakens the corn plant, making it more susceptible to other diseases and may also play a role in the kernel red streak problem.

Some Specialists Are Unenthusiastic About Gains in Farm Product Exports

By OVID A. MARTIN
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration has been pointing with pride to gains in exports of farm products, particularly grains. But some trade specialists see little justification for jubilation.

While agreeing with statistics showing sharp farm export increases, the critics claim that the U.S. government has made poor use of these foreign shipments in meeting the nation's critical trade problems, especially in the matter of meeting balance-of-payments deficits.

Official reports put farm product exports at a record high of $6.7 billion for the fiscal year which ended last June 30. This was an increase of about $500 million over exports during the preceding fiscal year.

Farm officials are predicting foreign shipments will reach $7.1 billion during the fiscal year ending on June 30 and will climb to $8 billion by 1970. The argument over farm exports is centered on what the United States gets for its food and farm commodities moved abroad.

Of the shipments during the past fiscal year, cash was received for products valued at $5.1 billion. The remaining $1.6 billion was supplied under foreign aid and donation programs.

This meant that the United States got cash for about three-fourths of its farm commodity sales. But critics assert this was a smaller percentage on cash receipts than most other agricultural countries received for their farm products.

A sharp criticism of the government's foreign trade policies affecting agriculture has been made by N. R. Danielian, president of the International Economic Policy Association with headquarters in Washington.

In a recent report, Danielian said this country's international political policies have been designed to rebuild Europe and other parts of the world. In doing this, he said, the United States has created a serious balance-of-payments problem.

This means that the United States has been spending much more abroad than foreigners have been spending here.

He said this country has "mismanaged the use of our great agricultural surpluses in solving the balance-of-payments problem."

"Here is a resource in which we have a natural and technological . . . advantage. No country can compete with us in cost and price. . . . We can increase our sales even more and take the pressure of deficits off our gold supply and the foreign exchanges, and relieve business from the continual fear that some day the boom is going to be lowered in the freedom of capital movements (to other countries)."

Danielian and other critics contend that this country has allowed competitors in the world export field to take the lion's share of the cash markets with the United States assuming most of the burden in filling the non-cash market needs.

These critics argue that if the United States is to continue to be the baker to the world, supplying the means of economic development — either through public aid or private investments—it must learn to husband its resources more carefully than it has been doing.

One of the things they say the country should do is to use food aid more discriminately and conserve more of it for cash sales.

The administration has countered that cash sales have been increasing, but it does not deny that many other competitive farm exporters are selling a larger portion of their products for hard cash.

Apple, Pear Trees Can Be Fertilized Now

Fertilize apple and pear trees after they are dormant but before the ground freezes — usually in late November or early December, says Eldon S. Banta, Extension Fruit specialist at Ohio State University.

While apple and pear trees can be fertilized now, it's a better idea to wait until spring to fertilize peaches, plums and cherries. A fall application of nitrogen to these fruits can lead to greater winter injury if sub-zero temperatures occur.

Nitrogen needs to be supplied more often than other nutrient elements, and frequently its the only element that needs to be applied. So, if you're applying nitrogen only Banta makes these recommendations:

For apple trees, use either nitrate or soda or sulfate of ammonia at the rate of 1-4 pound per year of tree age. If you use ammonium nitrate — and this is one of the best for fall applications — apply at the rate of 18 pound per year of tree age.

FOR PEAR trees, go sparingly on the nitrogen since heavy applications can cause succulent new growth next year that is very susceptible to fire blight disease. Apply nitrogen at about half the rate you would for apples.

For soils that don't supply enough of the other elements, especially potassium, you may decide on a mixed fertilizer such as 12-12-12 analysis. Use it at the rate of 1-3 pound per year of tree growth. You would rarely need to apply more than 12 pounds of a mixed fertilizer to a mature apple tree in one year, or six pounds to a mature pear tree, according to Banta.

The specialist advises broadcasting fertilizer beneath the tree two feet away from the trunk and slightly beyond the spread of the branches.

He said this country has "mismanaged the use of our great agricultural surpluses in solving the balance-of-payments problem."

"Here is a resource in which we have a natural and technological advantage. No country can compete with us in cost and price. . . . We can increase our sales even more and take the pressure of deficits off our gold supply and the foreign exchanges, and relieve business from the continual fear that some day the boom is going to be lowered in the freedom of capital movements (to other countries)."

Danielian and other critics contend that this country has allowed competitors in the world export field to take the lion's share of the cash markets with the United States assuming most of the burden in filling the non-cash market needs.

These critics argue that if the United States is to continue to be the baker to the world, supplying the means of economic development — either through public aid or private investments—it must learn to husband its resources more carefully than it has been doing.

One of the things they say the country should do is to use food aid more discriminately and conserve more of it for cash sales.

The administration has contended that cash sales have been increasing, but it does not deny that many other competitive farm exporters are selling a larger portion of their products for hard cash.

Apple, Pear Trees Can Be Fertilized Now

Fertilize apple and pear trees after they are dormant but before the ground freezes — usually in late November or early December, says Eldon S. Banta, Extension Fruit specialist at Ohio State University.

While apple and pear trees can be fertilized now, it's a better idea to wait until spring to fertilize peaches, plums and cherries. A fall application of nitrogen to these fruits can lead to greater winter injury if sub-zero temperatures occur.

Nitrogen needs to be supplied more often than other nutrient elements, and frequently it's the only element that needs to be applied. So, if you're applying nitrogen only Banta makes these recommendations:

For apple trees, use either nitrate or soda or sulfate of ammonia at the rate of 1-4 pound per year of tree age. If you use ammonium nitrate — and this is one of the best for fall applications — apply at the rate of 15 pound per year of tree age.

FOR PEAR trees, go sparingly on the nitrogen since heavy applications can cause succulent new growth next year that is very susceptible to fire blight disease. Apply nitrogen at about half the rate you would for apples.

For soils that don't supply enough of the other elements, especially potassium, you may decide on a mixed fertilizer such as 12-12-12 analysis. Use it at the rate of 1-3 pound per year of tree growth. You would rarely need to apply more than 12 pounds of a mixed fertilizer to a mature apple tree in one year, or six pounds to a mature pear tree, according to Banta.

The specialist advises broadcasting fertilizer beneath the tree two feet away from the trunk and slightly beyond the spread of the branches.

Farm Facts . .

NEW MINIMUM tillage systems using little tillage beyond plowing conserve soil and water and reduce labor and machine costs.

WITH LARGER machinery, some farmers are plowing deeper. Research is underway to study possible benefits from greater water-holding capacity with deeper plowing on soils with impervious subsoil layers.

TO GAIN abundant crops in America today, farmers must fight 10,000 types of insects, 1,500 plant and 250 animal diseases, according to the USDA.

4-H Club News

By JAMES R. HELT
County Extension Agent, 4-H

"Whether a 4-H girl learns a lot or a little about home economics in her club," observed a 4-H leader, "she'll improve herself, her home and her family in some manner."

Using this premise, it is safe to assume that the 1.3 million members participating in home economics projects today are making as many improvements. The youngsters are between 9 and 19, and reside in virtually every county in the state.

Parents and local club leaders alike share the responsibility for helping 4-H'ers stick to their project until completion, and then start a new one next year.

Individual projects vary according to needs and a desire to learn, says the Cooperative Extension Service which supervises the work, but the main categories are foods, clothing, interior decorating, home management, child care and consumer education.

The young homemakers are encouraged "to make the best better" by the program awards sponsor, Montgomery Ward, which has supported 4-H since 1922.

As in previous years, younger members have a chance to compete for county medals of honor, while the teen-ager is eligible for the state award and a trip to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago.

From the 50 state award winners, the Cooperative Extension Service will select six of the most outstanding home economics members for national honors. They receive $500 scholarships presented by a Ward's of official during the Chicago 4-H Congress.

It has been learned that former scholarship winners have been graduated with home economics degrees leading to successful careers. The young women credit their early 4-H projects with opening the door and stimulating their interest in the field.

There are today, and will be in future, plenty of job opportunities for the college graduate in a challenging and diversified profession described as having "1,000 job titles."

For more information about the 4-H home economics program, call the County Extension office or contact a local 4-H club leader.

The U. S. farm is no longer an outpost away from the mainstream of city life. And it's been years since the outward appearance of a farmer has been noticeably different than his city partner.

An example of the disappearing barrier between city folks and rural folks is the 4-H club youth.

At the present time, almost every 4-H boy and thousands of 4-H girls are enrolled in the 4-H agricultural program sponsored by International Harvester Company.

This is based on the 1965 enrollment totaling 963,379 members, an increase of nearly 71,000 over 1964, and up 141,764 from 1963. Many of these young people spend as much as 10 years on 4-H projects relating to farming and agri-business. In Pickaway County 771 4-H projects were agricultural projects including crops, livestock and gardening.

Scores of success stories are reported, profits made and futures secured. But hand in hand with success and security are disappointment, failure, loss or a move from the farm necessitated by economic pressures.

Hardly ever, though, does the young farmer fail to gain from his experiences. Working close to nature teaches self-reliance and discipline, he finds.

The complexity and high cost of modern farming compels rural teen-agers to keep informed on tested methods for producing the best crops, top quality livestock and poultry. They also are coached in finance, management, public speaking and demonstration.

All this, and more, is part of the informal, educational program set up by the Extension Service through its state and county 4-H offices. Local club leaders and parents are the hub of 4-H activities.

International Harvester has given financial and moral support to 4-H youth for nearly half a century. This fall the company again provided six 500 scholarships to national champions; a trip to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago for the state winner and medals of honor to four qualified members in each county.

During the 4-H Congress Harvester was host to a gala luncheon for some 2,000 delegates and guests where the 1966 state and national agricultural award winners were introduced. Another treat is a tour for boys through Harvester's Melrose Park tractor plant.

All of these 4-H projects are developed and offered by the Cooperative Extension Service of the Ohio State University in Pickaway County. For further information contact Jim Helt, County Extension agent, 4-H.

Luck of Irish Passed Him

BRISTOL, Va. (AP)—When Rudy McCray, 18, went back to the hospital recently his father said "At least he won't get injured there."

For Rudy, a husky freshman at Beckley, W.Va., College, that's more reassuring than you'd think.

Five years ago he went out for football at Virginia Junior High and broke a wrist and two fingers. He tried football at Virginia Senior High, too, and was rewarded with a severely sprained neck and a broken hand.

In 1963 he suffered broken bones in his legs in an auto accident and spent weeks on crutches.

Last month, while indulging in a bit of horseplay with college chums, Rudy suffered torn cartilages in his knee, underwent surgery, and was discharged, after a week, wearing a cast.

His freedom lasted six days. On Nov. 19, a head-on auto collision cost him a fractured leg, two teeth, and serious facial cuts. It was back to the hospital again.

"He takes it in stride," says his father, Jack McCray. "At least, he's safe from most kinds of accidents in the hospital."

Last month, while indulging in a bit of horseplay with college chums, Rudy suffered torn cartilages in his knee, underwent surgey, and was discharged, after a week, wearing a cast.

His freedom lasted six days. On Nov. 19, a head-on auto collision cost him a fractured leg, two teeth, and serious facial cuts. It was back to the hospital again.

"He takes it in stride," says his father, Jack McCray. "At least, he's safe from most kinds of accidents in the hospital."

Biggest Christmas

Anyone can see that this will be the biggest Christmas ever — as measured by business statistics. Department store sales nationwide are higher. Merchants who reordered have found that they underestimated the demand even on the second guess.

Stocks are short, and with quite a few shopping days left, buyers are already haunting the aisles.

That's the situation this year, and of course to a certain extent the prosperity is war born. Consumer demand has been spurred, as is always the case in war time. Defense spending of $60 billion a year has a terrific impact upon the economy.

Take home pay and purchasing power for factory workers have been rising until they are at new high levels. That's one place where the money that's flowing this Christmas came from. There are other sources, too. High activity has meant good salaries, good profits, good dividends.

Read a Book, B-O-O-K

NEW YORK (AP) —Do you have a friend whose whole world turns dark when his television set is on the blink?

Why let him sit there in lonely despair? There is a remedy for his condition. It is an old-fashioned remedy called reading. It has helped people pass the time in pleasure and self-profit for centuries.

So, until the television repairman can call, brighten your friend's plight by sending him a book for Christmas. He may be so grateful he will remember you in his will.

But what book to send him? It is very important to send the right book to the right person.

For example, and all in fun, here is a suggested list for people we all know or have heard about:

"Many Are Called" —George Romney, Richard M. Nixon, Ronald Reagan, and perhaps

Nelson A. Rockefeller.

"Open the Door" —Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

"Everything but Money" — your wife or mine.

"The Birds Fall Down" —all the young Democratic congressmen who didn't win re-election.

"Education by Uncle" —any disgruntled U.S. taxpayer.

"Modern American Usage" —

Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of Selective Service.

"Music in a New Found

Land" —any U.S. serviceman in Viet Nam.

"The Proud Tower" —Lyndon

B. Johnson.

"Keep Your Mouth Closed,

mobster.

"Confessions of a Dilettante" —

Gen. Charles de Gaulle.

"The Moment of Wonder" —

Ho Chi Minh.

"The Last Gentleman" —Zsa

Zsa Gabor.

"Prayer Can Change Your

"All God's Creatures" —

"Lost Cities of Asia" —Mao

Tse-tung of China.

"Witness to Our Time" —J.

"The Old Glory" —Former

"The Naked Image" —Gypsy

"The Awful Handyman's

The Business World

By John Cuniff

NEW YORK (AP) — Among the decisions pending at the White House is one that involves at least $30 billion, thousands of jobs, the economic future of huge regions, the prestige of the nation.

Measured in dollars it is the biggest single inner space project ever attempted, the creation of an aircraft larger than a football field and faster than sound.

Who will build the supersonic transport — the Boeing Co. of Seattle, Wash., or Lockheed Aircraft of Burbank, Calif., and Marietta, Ga.? Each has submitted plans for the project, in which the federal government has a heavy investment.

The money, jobs, prestige and economic factors alone make a wise and just decision difficult to arrive at. But before these were even considered, the merits of 22,000 pages of scientific documents were analyzed.

Into this ponderous recipe are now being added the ever present political factors, for when an administration spends money it must use it in a politically effective way, just as a businessman must make it effective financially.

Upon this mass of considerations will come to bear the final judgment of one man, Lyndon B. Johnson. His decision is due by Jan. 1.

To the winner goes an almost assured market during the next few decades, measured by some standards as low as $30 billion, but as high as $54 billion by Boeing.

General Electric and United Aircraft also are involved, for they are competing for the contract to build the jet engines, designed to be three times as powerful as those used now.

The four companies submitted plans earlier this year after at least a decade of scientific research. More than 200 government authorities reviewed the plans, as did 10 domestic and 21 foreign airlines.

Wind tunnel tests, mockups, laboratory analyses are among the ingredients offered for the decision. No prototype aircraft has yet been built.

The preliminary decision perhaps already has been made by the Federal Aviation Agency. Further consideration will be made by a special Cabinet-level committee. But the final choice is Johnson's.

Various possibilities are open to him: —Simply award the basic aircraft contract to Boeing or Lockheed and the engine contract to United Aircraft or General Electric.

—Postpone a decision. Delay the project by asking that prototypes of both Boeing and Lockheed designs be built and tested so as to better evaluate the two craft.

—Award contracts to more than one or two of the companies; possibly a major contract to one and a consolation of a sort to another.

Never before has a single decision on a single project carried so much importance in the business world. Its impact is not just immediate. As the years go by, the significance will grow.

For example, the decision being made now will not result in a commercial supersonic jet until 1974. Then the big business, contracts for perhaps 2,000 planes, will begin.

France and the Soviet Union also are building supersonic airliners and are well ahead of the U.S. schedule. This country, however, is basing its hopes on being best.

Dear Editor:

We, the undersigned four music teachers of the Circleville City Schools, wish the public to know that we, the school administration and the Board of Education have worked diligently to offer a balanced musical education for the young people in our charge.

We understand that much curtailment may be necessary in our department, as well as other departments, if the tax levy does not pass next Tuesday. Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

IF SWINGIN' SAM SNEAD ever loses his superb golfing touch, he can always make a good living out of telling stories on TV a la Bob Hope or Buddy Hackett.

Snead swears he was matched against a gorilla one day. The gorilla wore plus fours, a fancy golf shirt and cap, and watched calmly while Snead boomed a drive 260 yards down the first fairway. The gorilla thereupon sent his drive 380 yards!

Snead approached carefully, then took two putts for a regulation par. The gorilla's 380-yard drive, however, left him right on the apron of the green. He studied the lay of the green carefully, moistened a finger to test the wind, then thoughtfully pulled a putter out of his bag.

"You know what that gorilla did then?" avers Snead. "He took a nice, smooth swing with that putter—and smacked his putt another 380 yards!"

George Jessel's latest foray into the Catskill Mountain sector known as "The Borscht Belt" was a memorable one. In the first place, he declares, he was temporarily blinded by the sour cream. In the second place, his hotel proprietor boasted, "You should see the business we're doing! We've got them sleeping under the beds. The roof leaks."

Santa and the Giant Fighter

By Lucrece Beale

Synopsis: While Billy has breakfast in Santa Land, Tweedleknies discovers the magic words to free the moon from its sealed box.

CHAPTER SIX THE HARP WITCH

Patrick Tweedleknies pointed proudly to the thin green book he had given to Billy.

"It is a secret book of wizardry. I was very lucky to find it. It contains the magic words you will need to set the moon back in the sky."

"But," said Billy, "It's my school spelling book! It must have dropped out of my pocket when I put my coat down."

"Nonsense!" snapped Tweedleknies. "It's a code book. You will find the right combination of words at the proper time. You can read, of course?"

Billy opened the book. He saw his name written here: William Henry Christopher Preserve. He had written it himself. He was ashamed to admit that these were practically the only words in the book he could read. He wished he had been a better student and studied his reading and spelling at school. What was he to do now?

Santa was pulling on his boots and fastening on his big red coat.

"That much is settled! he cried happily. 'Now off to the Harp Witch to find out how best to slay the giant!'

Billy sighed and stuck the spelling book in his pocket. He decided he would face the problem of the magic words when the time came. He followed Santa out of the house.

"If we could go to the witch's house in my sleigh we'd be there in no time," said Santa. "But the giant would surely snatch us out of the sky as he did the moon. Well, I know a turtle who can take us there quickly enough."

Billy's eyes popped when he saw Theodore Turtle waiting for them on the shore of the sea. Theodore was so big four men could ride on his back.

The Harp Witch plucks a rusty harp and sings hate songs.

But, wondered Billy, how fast could even a big turtle swim?

Theodore didn't intend to swim. He climbed out of his shell and turned it upside down in the water. Santa and Billy and Theodore climbed in; the turtle raised a sail, and away they sailed.

Presently they reached the shores of Keepaway and the home of the Harp Witch.

The Harp Witch is an ugly old crone. Day and night she plucks the strings of a rusty harp and croons songs of hate. Once, she had been beautiful and young and madly in love with Goko the giant. Goko wooed her and promised to wed her but on the day of the wedding he changed his mind and never saw her again.

The witch was so mad she flew to Keepaway Island and lived forever after on her hate for Goko the giant. She did not want to talk to Santa and Billy. She told them not leave. But when Santa told her that they were seeking a way to destroy Goko, the witch laid aside her harp and eagerly listened to their story.

"The boy must have some magic, said Santa, 'or the giant will finish him before he even draws his wooden sword. The Harp Witch thought and thought. Finally she said, 'Goko loves jewels.'

"What kind of jewels? asked Santa.

"Beautiful stones set in bracelets and rings and necklaces. The witch paced back and forth muttering to herself. Suddenly she stopped in front of Billy and cried, 'Bring me the Rosanna Ruby. I will place it in a neck band of my own making. When Goko puts the band around his throat it will squeeze so tight he will be helpless.'

"Suppose he does not put it on? said Santa.

"He will! He could not resist the Rosanna Ruby! Tomorrow: Three Islands.

Logan Elm Halts Westfall Rally To Win 57-50 Tilt

By HERB AMEY

Logan Elm, taking an early lead that was never relinquished, fought off a rally by Westfall to top the Mustangs, 57-50, Friday night on the Braves' court. A packed house was on hand.

The winners had a 23-point lead early in the fourth quarter. But Westfall suddenly came alive to offer a real challenge in the closing minutes.

Westfall fought the Braves all the way in the first period, falling to a 19-16 deficit when the buzzer sounded. In the second period Logan Elm really started moving.

The Braves, aided by six free throws, pumped in 15 points while the Mustangs were held to five. Logan Elm was on top at the half, 34-21.

THE THIRD quarter saw Westfall falter still as they tallied only three points the entire eight minutes. The Braves, on the other hand, pushed in 11 to hold a 21-point margin going into the final period.

Russ Merrin vaulted Logan Elm to its highest edge, at the start of the fourth quarter with two free throws. His points gave the Braves a 47-42 bulge.

Charlie Palmer of Westfall began to find the range and popped in three quick baskets. Free throws by Palmer and Andy Hamman brought the Mustangs to within a 47-32 count.

Merrin again added a pair of charity tosses but Del Haney of Westfall shot one of his own.

Merrin cashed in on four consecutive free throws to take Logan Elm to a 53-33 lead with 3:55 remaining.

In the last three minutes Westfall hit 13 free throws. Logan Elm's scoring ended with 1:57 to go on two free throws by Merrin. That gave the Braves a 13-point edge, 57-44.

THE MUSTANGS collected three more field goals before their onslaught was stopped by the final buzzer.

The Braves connected on 12 of 29 shots from the field for 41 per cent. From the charity stripe they hit on 33 of 46 shots, a 72 per cent clip.

Westfall shot 42 from the court and connected on 11, for 26 per cent. The Mustangs hit on 28 of 46 free throws for 61 per cent.

High scorer of the night was Merrin of Logan Elm. The tall pivot man connected on two of six field goal attempts and 14 of 19 charity tosses — eight in the closing minutes — for a total of 18. Teammate Jim Moorehead hit four of 13 from the floor and four of five from the line for 12 markers.

Hamman led the Westfall charge with six of 13 field goal tries and three of nine free throws for 15 points. Charlie Palmer had three field goals on 12 attempts and six charity tosses on seven attempts.

Logan Elm was charged with 18 turnovers while Westfall committed 15. The Braves snagged 39 rebounds while the Mustangs controlled the ball 22 times.

WESTFALL'S junior varsity won the preliminary tilt, 43-38.

Both Logan Elm and Westfall are engaged tonight. The Braves travel to Huntington and the Mustangs host Hamilton Twp.

Coatta Named Badger Coach

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — John Coatta, an ex-Wisconsin quarterback of the Bart Starr school, has been assigned to restore the shine to the Badgers' tarnished football image.

The 36-year-old Wisconsin defensive coach was named to succeed his former boss, Milt Bruhn, who resigned after a third straight losing season.

The elevation of Coatta to the $19,500-a-year job had been expected. The university's Athletic Board unanimously recommended the promotion Tuesday night, but Coatta was not informed officially until after the Board of Regents ratified the decision Friday.

Tigers Fall to Tall Greenfield, 88-61

By STEVE JONES

Circleville's basketball team dropped its second South Central Ohio League game Friday night and its fourth of the season, losing at Greenfield, 88-61.

The diminutive Tigers from Roundtown were no match for the tall Highland County variety of Tiger.

The front line for Greenfield included 6-3 senior Jim Kensinger, 6-1 senior Jim Taylor and 6-3 junior Steve Sieg. At guards were 6-2 Bob Bristley and 6-0 Sam Daugherty.

To go with that size, the McClain cagers had good shooting ability. They canned 41 of 77 shots from the field for a 53 per cent average.

AT THE foul line, the winners connected on six of seven shots. Circleville had trouble finding the range in the close confines of the Greenfield gymnasium. The Tigers fired away 75 times, but hit only 27 for a 36 per cent average. They connected on seven of nine shots at the foul line.

Leading scorer in the game was Greenfield's Sieg, who totaled 24 points on 11 field goals and two foul shots.

Most of his goals were under the bucket where he used his height to good advantage. He scored 22 points in the second half.

Bristley hit eight of 14 shots for the winners, many from long range, and added two at the foul line for an 18-point total.

Also scoring in double figures for McClain were Daugherty with 11, Kensinger with 11 and Tavior with 14.

FOR THE Red and Black, Tim Stonerock connected on eight of 18 field goal tries and one of three foul shots for a total of 21 points.

Stonerock scored 10 of his points in the first quarter when Greenfield was using a man-to-man defense.

Danny Speakman paced the Tigers in the second half, scoring 13 of his 17 points in the last two periods. His goals came over the assortment of zone defenses that Greenfield Coach Paul Hager utilized in the second half.

Scott McFarland notched six points for Circleville, Joe Winner and Dan Gibbs scored five each, Jeff Steele tossed in three and Dave Horst and Mike Martindill had two each.

The game started with Circleville controlling the tip and scoring the first bucket. The Tigers led 8-6 at one point early in the initial canto, but Greenfield went ahead and was never behind again. The score was 21-17 at the end of the quarter.

Through most of the second quarter, the McClain five seldom held more than a three-point margin.

BUT WITH two minutes to go they began to get their fast break clicking and by halftime they held a 10-point bulge, 39-29.

The McClain team dropped the man-to-man defense they used for most of the first half and used a variety of zones including a 2-1-2, a 3-2 and a 1-3-1 to slow the Circleville scoring in the second half. By the time the final quarter got under way, they led, 62-47.

Although nine players broke into the scoring column for McClain, the five top played most of the game.

With 5:09 to go and boasting a 22-point lead, Hager cleared his bench. But only for a little while as he sent the first five back in with three minutes remaining.

It was the fourth win in five games for Greenfield. All of the victories have been at home and the lone loss was to Portsmouth on the road.

The Circleville Tigers will be seeking their second win of the season tonight in the Mill St. gymnasium when Reynoldsburg comes to town.

After winning the first tilt of the season against Westfall, the Tigers have gone down to four consecutive defeats.

Parseghian Worthy Successor to 'Rock'

By JERRY LISKA

SOUTH BEND, Ind. AP — Two giant pictures — Knute Rockne on the left and Ara Parseghian on the right — hung over the long rostrum as the Notre Dame Club of Chicago held its Rockne Memorial Dinner in a jammed hotel ballroom Monday night.

There they were — Rock, the master psychologist, and Ara, the dynamic organizer, sharing the adulation of 1,500 Irish alumni gathered to cheer Notre Dame's first national champion football team in 17 years.

In just three years, Armenian Protestant Parseghian had gained the stature as a worthy successor to the legendary Rockne enjoyed previously mainly by Frank Leahy.

Leahy one of six Notre Dame schooled descendants of Rockne to coach the Irish left in 1953 with an 87-11-9 record after 11 seasons.

Leahy did receive a great ovation at the Monday night affair, but he was seated in the crowd — not on the rostrum. The first three Notre Dame seasons for Leahy and Parseghian were almost identical. Frank posted 24-4-3, winning the first of his four national titles in 1943, his third Irish season, with a 9-1 record.

Parseghian's three-season Irish mark is 25-3-2, capped this year with a 9-0-1 record which won the national title based on the final Associated Press poll — first for Notre Dame since Leahy's 1949 club.

All this, the intense, fiery Parseghian did mainly with material inherited from predecessors who had a combined record of 7-10-0 in 1962 and 1963. Rockne's 13-season Notre Dame reign produced a 105-12-5 record, a .897 percentage that still tops major college coaching.

Parseghian, 43, has a composite 100-44-4 record spanning his head coaching at Miami of Ohio, Northwestern and Notre Dame.

Parseghian once before had an undefeated season, a perfect one, when the last of his five Miami Redskins Clubs posted 9-0 in 1955.

Parseghian, a coach with a snappy staff, split-timing in practice sessions and player incentive awards, is contracted at Notre Dame through 1969.

Next season, Parseghian will be operating with the first Irish squad he fully recruited. Graduating All-America stars Nick Eddy, Jim Lynch, and Tom Regner, plus Pete Duranko, Alan Page and Larry Conjar all were recruited by Hugh Devore or Joe Kuharich.

Laurelville Wildcats Win SVC Start by 81-51 Count

Laurelville got the jump on other teams in the Scioto Valley Conference Friday night by defeating visiting Piketon, 81-51.

It marked the first league game of the season in the SVC. Pacing the Wildcats to their victory where Mike Chestnut and Steve Hettinger.

Chestnut hit six field goals and 11 foul shots for 23 markers and game scoring honors. Hettinger canned seven from the field and seven from the charity stripe for a total of 21 points in the tilt.

Laurelville jumped to an early lead and was never threatened in spite of the fact the Wildcats' tall junior center, Bob Bowers, sprained his ankle after playing only four minutes.

BOWERS scored six points while in the game, but he will be lost to the Wildcats tonight when they travel to Fairfield School for Boys.

The score was 23-14 at the end of the first period. At halftime, the Laurelville quintet was on top 45-23, and as the final period started the winners were out front, 60-40.

The Wildcats hit 25 of 39 foul shots and 28 of 72 attempts from the floor. They cleared 62 rebounds off the boards, completely dominating that phase of the game.

"It was a real team effort," Wildcat coach Dick Graham said. "I'm real proud of the way they played."

In the reserve game, Joe Link and Marty Unger teamed up to score 30 points as the little Wildcats rolled to a 70-49 decision over the Piketon junior varsity.

Balanced Attack Paces Vikings To Metro Verdict

VIKING ACTION — Rod Teets pumps a shot for Teays Valley while a quartet of Pleasant View players surround the basket in a Metropolitan League game won by the Vikings, 56-52.

Four players from Teays Valley scored in double figures as the Vikings gained a 56-52 win over Pleasant View Friday night at Teays Valley in Metropolitan League action.

The Vikings led by as much as nine points in the final period. But a scrappy Panther unit fought back with outside shots to keep it close.

Teays Valley held an outside edge and led, 15-5, as the first period ended. The Vikings upped their lead to seven as the half ended to remain on top, 26-19.

In the third period a fired-up Panther team came on and with only four minutes gone trailed by two, 27-25. Lay ups by Teays Valley jumped the score back up but the Panthers countered with their deadly outside attack.

A JUMP shot by Marvin Roush of Pleasant View with 1:35 to go in the third period brought the Panthers again to a two-point deficit, 34-32.

Teays Valley fought back and remained on top, 37-34, starting the last quarter.

In no time, baskets by the Vikings put them ahead by as much as nine points. But four successive jump shots by the Panthers brought them back into the contest.

Leading by only four, 48-44, with 3:15 to go, Rod Teets of Teays Valley scored two buckets. The Vikings continued their mastery until Charlie Hess, Roush and Monte Rhoden of Pleasant View combined for three field goals.

Both teams traded baskets in the last 20 seconds and Teays Valley led by only two, 54-52.

Charlie Palmer of Westfall began to find the range and popped in three quick baskets. Free throws by Palmer and Andy Hamman brought the Mustangs to within a 47-32 count.

Merrin again added a pair of charity tosses but Del Haney of Westfall shot one of his own.

Merrin cashed in on four consecutive free throws to take Logan Elm to a 53-33 lead with 3:55 remaining.

In the last three minutes estfall hit 13 free throws. Logan Elm's scoring ended with 1:37 to go on two free throws by Merrin. That gave the Braves a 13-point edge, 57-44.

THE MUSTANGS collected three more field goals before their onslaught was stopped by the final buzzer.

The Braves connected on 12 of 29 shots from the field for 41 per cent. From the charity stripe they hit on 33 of 46 shots, a 72 per cent clip.

Westfall shot 42 from the court and connected on 11, for Hamman led the Westfall charge with six of 13 field goal tries and three of nine free throws for 15 points. Charlie Palmer had three field goals on 12 attempts and six charity tosses on seven attempts.

Coatta Named Badger Coach

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — John Coatta, an ex-Wisconsin quarterback of the Bart Starr school, has been assigned to restore the shine to the Badgers' tarnished football image.

The 36-year-old Wisconsin defensive coach was named to succeed his former boss, Milt Bruhn, who resigned after a third straight losing season.

The elevation of Coatta to the $19,500-a-year job had been expected. The university's Athletic Board unanimously recommended the promotion Tuesday night, but Coatta was not informed officially until after the Board of Regents ratified the decision Friday.

Tiger Matmen Stop Central

By STEVE JONES

Circleville's basketball team dropped its second South Central Ohio League game Friday night and its fourth of the season, losing at Greenfield, 88-61.

The diminutive Tigers from Roundtown were no match for the tall Highland County variety of Tiger.

The front line for Greenfield included 6-3 senior Jim Kensington, 6-1 senior Jim Taylor and 6-3 junior Steve Sieg. At guards were 6-2 Bob Bristley and 6-0 Sam Daugherty.

To go with that size, the McClain cagers had good shooting ability. They canned 41 of 57 shots from the field for a 53 per cent average.

AT THE foul line, the winners connected on six of seven shots.

Circleville had trouble finding the range in the close confines of the Greenfield gymnasium. The Tigers fired away 75 times, but hit only 27 for a 36 per cent average. They connected on seven of nine shots at the foul line.

Leading scorer in the game was Greenfield's Sieg, who totaled 24 points on 11 field goals and two foul shots.

Most of his goals were under the bucket where he used his height to good advantage. He scored 22 points in the second half.

Bristley hit eight of 14 shots for the winners, many from long range, and added two at the foul line for an 18-point total.

Also scoring in double figures for McClain were Daugherty with 11, Kensington with 11 and Taylor with 14.

FOR THE Red and Black, Tim Stonerock connected on eight of 18 field goal tries and one of three foul shots for a total of 21 points.

Stonerock scored 10 of his points in the first quarter when Greenfield was using a man-to-man defense.

Danny Speakman paced the Tigers in the second half, scoring 13 of his 17 points in the last two periods. His goals came over the assortment of zone defenses that Greenfield Coach Paul Hager utilized in the second half.

Scott McFarland notched six points for Circleville, Joe Winner and Dan Gibbs scored five each, Jeff Steele tossed

Parseghian Worthy Successor to 'Rock'

By JERRY LISKA

SOUTH BEND, Ind. AP) — Two giant pictures — Knute Rockne on the left and Ara Parseghian on the right — hung over the long rostrum as the Notre Dame Club of Chicago held its Rockne Memorial Dinner in a jammed hotel ballroom Monday night.

There they were — Rock, the master psychologist, and Ara, the dynamic organizer, sharing the adulation of 1,500 Irish alumni gathered to cheer Notre Dame's first national champion football team in 17 years.

In just three years, Armenian Protestant Parseghian had gained the stature as a worthy successor to the legendary Rockne enjoyed previously mainly by Frank Leahy.

Leahy one of six Notre Dame schooled descendants of Rockne to coach the Irish left in 1953

Laurelville Wildcats Win SVC Start by 81-51 Count

Laurelville got the jump on other teams in the Scioto Valley Conference Friday night by defeating visiting Piketon, 81-51.

It marked the first league game of the season in the SVC. Pacing the Wildcats to their victory where Mike Chestnut and Steve Hettinger.

Chestnut hit six field goals and 11 foul shots for 23 markers and game scoring honors. Hettinger canned seven from the field and seven from the charity stripe for a total of 21 points in the tilt.

Laurelville jumped to an early lead and was never threatened in spite of the fact the Wildcats' tall junior center, Bob Bowers, sprained his ankle after playing only four minutes.

BOWERS scored six points while in the game, but he will be lost to the Wildcats tonight when they travel to Fairfield School for Boys.

The score was 23-14 at the end of the first period. At halftime, the Laurelville quintet was on top 45-23, and as the final period started the winners were out front, 60-40.

The Wildcats hit 25 of 39 foul shots and 28 of 72 attempts from the floor. They cleared 62 rebounds off the boards, completely dominating that phase of the game.

"It was a real team effort," Wildcat coach Dick Graham said. "I'm real proud of the way they played."

In the reserve game, Joe Link and Marty Unger teamed up to score 30 points as the little Wildcats rolled to a 70-49 decision over the Piketon junior varsity.

in three and Dave Horst and Mike Martindill had two each.

The game started with Circleville controlling the tip and scoring the first bucket. The Tigers led 8-6 at one point early in the initial canto, but Greenfield went a head and was never behind again. The score was 21-17 at the end of the quarter.

Through most of the second quarter, the McClain five seldom held more than a three-point margin.

BUT WITH two minutes to go they began to get their feet break clicking and by halftime they held a 10-point bulge, 39-29.

The McClain team dropped the man-to-man defense they used for most of the first half and used a variety of zones including a 2-1-2, a 3-2 and a 1-3-1 to slow the Circleville scoring in the second half. By the time the final quarter got under way, they led, 62-47.

Although nine players broke into the scoring column for McClain, the five top played most of the game.

With 5:09 to go and boasting a 22-point lead, Hager cleared his bench. But only for a little while as he sent the first five back in with three minutes remaining.

It was the fourth win in five games for Greenfield. All of the victories have been at home and the lone loss was to Portsmouth on the road.

The Circleville Tigers will be seeking their second win of the season tonight in the Mill St. gymnasium when Reynoldsburg comes to town.

After winning the first tilt of the season against Westfall, the Tigers have gone down to four consecutive defeats.

Parseghian's three-season Irish mark is 25-3-2, capped this year with a 9-0-1 record which won the national title based on the final Associated Press poll — first for Notre Dame since Leahy's 1949 club.

All this, the intense, fiery Parseghian did mainly with material inherited from predecessors who had a combined record of 7-10-0 in 1962 and 1963. Rockne's 13-season Notre Dame reign produced a 105-12-5 record, a .897 percentage that still tops major college coaching.

Parseghian, 43, has a composite 100-44-4 record spanning his head coaching at Miami of Ohio, Northwestern and Notre Dame.

Parseghian once before had an undefeated season, a perfect one, when the last of his five Miami Redskin Clubs posted 9-0 in 1955.

Parseghian, a coach with a snappy staff, split-timing in practice sessions and player incentive awards, is contracted at Notre Dame through 1969.

Next season, Parseghian will be operating with the first Irish squad he fully recruited. Graduating All-America stars Nick Eddy, Jim Lynch, and Tom Regner, plus Pete Duranko, Alan Page and Larry Conjar all were recruited by Hugh Devore or Joe Kuharich.

Reserve Unit Loses, 32-30, In Overtime

The Circleville High School reserves lost a thrilling, rough and tumble game Friday night at Greenfield, 32-30, in an overtime.

The little Tigers led 6-4 at the end of the first period and 14-11 at halftime. In the third quarter, the host school pulled into a 23-20 lead.

With 2:27 to go, Phil Diehl tied the score by hitting a pair of foul shots. Then Dave Hopkins put Circleville ahead, 30-28. But it was a short lived lead.

Greenfield tied the score with :32 seconds to go and the regulation four periods ended with the score deadlocked at 30-30.

IN THE overtime, the Tigers were unable to score, while Greenfield notched a field goal for the win.

Phil Diehl was leading scorer in the tilt with 10 points on three field goals and four foul shots.

Gene Dyke scored seven. Mark Downing and Dave Hopkins four each, Dan Willis three and Frank Carter two.

The Tiger reserves now own a 1-4 record for the season.

Judge Forced To Order Convicts Gagged, Bound

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The judge ordered two hardened convicts gagged and bound in straitjackets before letting their trial continue. A third convict threatened to kill him.

When the five-week trial in Allegheny County criminal court ended Friday night with the conviction of the trio for attempted prison break, one defendant called the judge a "creep."

The three Western State Penitentiary inmates — Richard Mayberry, 28; Dominic Codisopoli, 34, and Herbert F. Lagnes, 27 — acted as their own attorneys. Sentencing was set for Monday.

As Judge Albert A. Fiok began charging the jury, Mayberry and Godisopoli threw the courtroom into an uproar by shouting at the jury and drowning out the judge.

Fiok called a recess and ordered the pair removed. Twenty minutes later deputies marched them into the courtroom. The two prisoners were bound in heavy canvas straitjackets and their mouths were taped shut.

Lagnes, still unbound, shook a fist at the judge and screamed: "I swear on my mother's name. I'll keep my threats to you. You understand that you punk. I'll shake hands with you in hell. You're a dead man." He added a respectful, "your honor."

Last week Lagnes told Fiok: "If I can't get my rights legally, I'll get them illegally. If I have to blow your head off, that's what I'll do."

While Lagnes made his new threat, Mayberry and Codisopoli mumbled loudly through their gags. The situation completely out of control, Fiok called another recess.

Each man was charged with holding two prison guards hostage while attempting to escape with zip guns and prison-made bombs from Western State June 27, 1965.

In his charge, Fiok called the trio's conduct "utterly horrendous. But he admonished the jurors to 'look out of your minds the distasteful display by the defendants.'"

It took the jury nearly six hours to reach a verdict. As Fiok thanked the jurors for their time and effort, Mayberry screamed:

"Why don't you shut your mouth and get on with the business at hand, you creep." Twenty deputies surrounded him, and the judge continued his remarks.

Ex-Slave, 125, Wants Divorce, But Not Custody

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (AP) — Sylvester Magee, an ex-slave who says he is 125, wants a divorce from his wife but he doesn't seek custody of their 15-year-old daughter.

Court records in Hattiesburg, Miss., showed Friday that Magee has filed divorce action against his wife, Marie, claiming that she deserted him in 1953.

It is generally accepted that Magee was born in 1841. Earlier this year the Veterans Administration admitted Magee to its Jackson Hospital for treatment of pneumonia after he claimed he had fought for the Union army in the siege of Vicksburg during the Civil War.

Civil War buffs back Magee's claims and age.

Magee says he still loves his wife, who now lives in Poughkeepsie, N.Y., and refuses to come home.

Women Organize To Support Efforts of Hospital Ship

A group of Circleville citizens played an important part in the recent docking of the famous hospital ship HOPE (Health Opportunity for People Everywhere) in New York harbor.

Dr. and Mrs. Robert G. Smith, 918 Circle Drive, were at the harbor to greet the ship and its crews as it docked. They toured the ship and renewed many friendships made during their two voyages as members of the HOPE staff.

Following the docking, the Smiths attended a reception for all members and friends of HOPE at the Time and Life Building in New York.

At the time the ship docked in New York, Mrs. Manuel Sanguily, the Smith's daughter and Mrs. Charles Schieber, were among 200 women from Central Ohio who met at the Governor's Mansion in Columbus to form a Central Ohio Women's Division for Project HOPE.

AFTER viewing a color film detailing the ship's stay in Peru the women heard a talk by Dr. Brooks Hurd, a Columbus physician, who has completed volunteer service with the ship. He explained the work as he unrehearsed case after case of killing malnutrition, parasitic and cancerous infections and gross deformities which came to the attention of HOPE. Dr. Hurd pointed out that the staffs of HOPE do not give the destitute people money, "only service." "We can only treat so many people in a given stay, but we try to leave behind something even better — knowledge. Ship personnel train medical people in the host countries as well as treating individual patients," the doctor said.

During the meeting, best wishes were read from Dr. and Mrs. Smith wishing the women well in forming the Ohio Women's Division for Project HOPE. In this area's first major effort to support the volunteer work, this slate of officers was announced: Mrs. R. W. Bethel, president; Mrs. Robert Decker, vice president; Mrs. Brooks Hurd, recording secretary; Mrs. Jack Teterick, financial secretary; Mrs. John Herbert, treasurer; and Mrs. Aston Quilli, historian.

Three yearly meetings are planned by the group with their major fund-raising event to be a Project HOPE Ball tentatively planned for May.

Since its first voyage in 1960, the HOPE has docked for one-month stays in Peru, Ecuador, Guinea, West Africa and most recently Nicaragua. Current plans are for the ship to sail to Colombia in 1967.

Teacher's Calm Prevents Possible School Tragedy

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — An ominous noise overhead diverted Claudine Black's attention from her third-grade class at Linden School.

Looking up, the teacher saw the ceiling beginning to sag. With the calmness she used in many routine fire drills, Mrs. Black quickly ushered her 25 pupils to the room.

The last child was barely through the door Friday when more than a ton of plaster, acoustical tile and wire lathe crashed onto the desks where the youngsters had been sitting.

Outside, Mrs. Black discovered 9-year-old Rhonda Bush was missing. The teacher's first thought was the child might be trapped in the rubble. Then she recalled the girl had been in a small room off the classroom, getting writing paper.

Shouting to Rhonda to remain where she was, Mrs. Black groped her way through unsettled dust, climbed over the rubble, and led the girl to safety.

"That teacher's calmness prevented any of those children's injury," said Principal Edward Meyers. "They got out safely, but not by much."

"Those children were under control every minute," Mrs. Black said. "It was like our fire drills. There was no panic."

Grinch Makes Television With Yertle, Cat in Hat

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The Grinch is coming to television, and he may well be followed by Yertle the Turtle and the Cat in the Hat.

As a generation of American children knows, all of the above are characters from the books of Dr. Seuss, the prolific, immensely successful author of stories for tots. His "How the Grinch Stole Christmas" will be a CBS holiday special on Sunday Dec. 18.

Dr. Seuss, a former magazine cartoonist who discovered the gold to be mined in children's books, goes under the name of Ted Geisel in real life. During the past year he has been neglecting his literary duties to commute from his La Jolla, Calif., home to Culver City, where "Grinch" was being drawn by MGM cartoonists.

"I usually average a book a year," he explained, "but I dropped out this year, and my wife has been editing the book for beginning readers. I've been going up to the studio two or three times a week and also to New York to work on the lyrics of the songs with Albert Hague."

"The cartoon work has taken an immense amount of time. The film is in full animation, not the usual kind of stop-action you see on television. It took 25,000 individual drawings to create the half-hour cartoon."

Geisel coproduced "The Grinch" with Chuck Jones, head of the MGM cartoon factory. Their association goes back to World War II when they served together in Frank Capra's animation unit that made training films for the Signal Corps.

Until now, Geisel has declined to release his multifarious characters to television, although he did perform on a live show for the long ago "Omibus." Only twice before has he allowed his stories to be filmed; George Pal produced a couple in his puppetoon process, and Warner Bros. filmed "Horton Hatches the Egg."

"I've enjoyed working with MGM, and I might do more in films," he said.

But first he must get back into book production. Even though he brings forth only a thin volume, the gestation process requires the better part of a year. "Most authors think they can knock out a 60-page juvenile in a weekend," he said. "I tune mine up, pinning over storyboards and working over every word. Each paragraph is comparable to the chapter of a normal book."

Judge Forced To Order Convicts Gagged, Bound

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The judge ordered two hardened convicts gagged and bound in straitjackets before letting their trial continue. A third convict threatened to kill him.

When the five-week trial in Allegheny County criminal court ended Friday night with the conviction of the trio for attempted prison break, one defendant called the judge a "creep."

The three Western State Penitentiary inmates — Richard Mayberry, 28; Dominic Codispodi, 34, and Herbert F. Lagnes, 27 — acted as their own attorneys. Sentencing was set for Monday.

As Judge Albert A. Fiock began charging the jury, Mayberry and Codispodi threw the courtroom into an uproar by shouting at the jury and drowning out the judge.

Fiock called a recess and ordered the pair removed. Twenty minutes later deputies marched them into the courtroom. The two prisoners were bound in heavy canvas straitjackets and their mouths were taped shut.

Lagnes, still unbound, shook a fist at the judge and screamed: "I swear on my mother's name, I'll keep my threats to you. You understand that you punk. I'll shake hands with you in hell. You're a dead man." He added a respectful, "your honor."

Last week Lagnes told Fiock: "If I can't get my rights legally, I'll get them illegally. If I have to blow your head off, that's what I'll do."

While Lagnes made his new threat, Mayberry and Codispodi mumbled loudly through their gags. The situation completely out of control, Fiock called another recess.

Battalion Hit

While the Communists centered on the capital area with this and smaller attacks, 1700 guerrilla-trained American infantrymen arrived in South Viet Nam in the continuing buildup of U.S. forces and a squadron of F100 Supersabres was added to American air strength here.

The new arrivals brought to 367,700 the number of American servicemen in South Viet Nam. More are expected in the next few days.

The first contingent of the U.S. 99th Light Infantry Brigade departed at Vung Tau, 40 miles south of Saigon. The rest of the 4,000-man brigade was scheduled to arrive soon in another full U.S. infantry division.

In the air, war high-flying B52 bombers staged three raids on Communist troops and bases today in South Viet Nam and American pilots flew 78 bombing missions over North Viet Nam Friday.

In the fighting around Saigon, Viet Cong marauders attacked a U.S. Army ammunition dump 13 miles northeast of the capital early today. The explosives they planted set fire to two ammunition pads. A U.S. spokesman said casualties and damage were light. It was the third Viet Cong attack on the Long Binh ammunition dump in less than two months.

In the larger attack Friday night on the Vietnamese training center near Baria, 34 miles southeast of Saigon, the Viet Cong force opened up with machine-gun, mortar and small arms fire on two companies — about 300 men — of regional force troops.

The first wave of B52 bombers struck at a Viet Cong troop concentration 32 miles northwest of Saigon, the same target that was hit 24 hours earlier.

The second raid struck at an enemy troop center on a mountainside in the central highlands 76 miles southwest of Pleiku City. The third strike of the day was against a Communist base area in the northern part of the country 36 miles south of Hue on the South China Sea coast.

In air strikes over South Viet Nam Friday, U.S. pilots flew 373 sorties and claimed destruction of more than 180 enemy huts, structures and fortifications. South Vietnamese pilots flew an additional 128 sorties.
